Democratic Measure Passed
Four Months Ago by House
Should Be Adopted in Senate
Before Monday Night

BILL WILL GO BACK TO THE HOUSE ON TUESDAY

Following Return to Lower House, Measure Will Be Debated in Conference for Not Less Than Two Weeks

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 8.—The Senate met this morning at 10 o'clock for what promises to be the longest and probably the most interesting session it has held this season. The Democratic leaders are determined to pass the tariff bill in its final passage, if possible, and they have decided to hold the session in session all night, if it appears possible to force a vote.

Just at this time Senator La Follette, militant insurgent and long distance orator, is the principal obstacle in the way of the bill. He does not intend to filibuster to delay the bill, but he has determined positively to leave his seat about two or three schedules of the bill. He himself is not sure as to how much time it will require for him to say his say.

"I had a good night's rest, and I am sure for the night," remarked Senator La Follette as he entered the Senate this morning. Senator Martin, of Virginia, agreed that the bill should be passed if possible tonight, and Senator John Smith and other members of the finance committee encouraged this sentiment as much as possible.

So far as the provisions of the bill are concerned, it is believed that not an "it will be done" but a "it is done" as a result of further consideration. The measure was finally passed Saturday night when it passed from the committee of the whole to the Senate and the further consideration will serve only to clear up some minor points.

Senator Wilson, of New Jersey, is the chief opponent of the bill. He has been very active in the House, and he has been very active in the Senate. He has been very active in the House, and he has been very active in the Senate.

Never in History of Southern Baseball Has Their Performance Been Equalled—Atlanta Is Theirs
for the Asking

Atlanta turns to New Orleans today with hat off and says "Thank you." To the ragged, tail-enders of the Southern league, the Crackers and the Peaches, but most of all to Pitcher Fingie Wilson and Stagger Tim Hendryx, Atlanta render thanksgiving for what it has received, a pennant and the 1913 championship of the Southern league.

Saturday night all felt that the sun had set on Atlanta's pennant hopes. The Crackers, who had been leading the league with the Guile after the wildest rag race in the history of the Southern association, the Crackers yet looked forward to better defeat. With their Sunday game at home with New Orleans it appeared that the Guile could not be possibly lost, and would therefore finish the race one-half game ahead of the locals.

But Atlanta's salvation in the shape of Fingie Wilson's good left arm and Tim Hendryx's true right arm, which in Sunday afternoon, and snatched victory from defeat. The 1913 New Orleans baseball club will go down in history as "the team that won a pennant for Atlanta."

"THE TEAM THAT WON A PENNANT FOR ATLANTA." All Atlanta waited breathless on a quiet Sabbath afternoon to hear the very complete report of the game from Monroe park. In different parts of the city details were carried. At The Journal office a full detail of the game came in from the time it started at 2 o'clock until it ended shortly before dark. Every minute of this time was called over the telephone to find out whether the fate of Atlanta was victory or defeat.

When the last bulletin was read to them, "New Orleans, 6; Mobile, 2," not one but split the wires with a word of delight. In five minutes the news of that tremendous victory was all over the city. The Crackers had won the pennant. The Crackers had won the pennant. The Crackers had won the pennant.

BACK TO SCHOOL AFTER THE SUMMER VACATION

ATLANTA'S SCHOOLS OPEN FOR REGIMENT OF 25,000 PUPILS

Over 1,000 More Than Attended Last Term Were on Hand for Early Start When Bells Rang Monday Morning

ACTUAL STUDY TO BE RESUMED ON TUESDAY

Young Folk Make Rush on Book Stores When They Are Dismissed for Day Soon
After Organization

Three months of happy vacation days, free from care and study came to a close Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock when over 25,000 school children answered the call of the tolling bells, bidding them again take up their lesson for the scholastic year of 1913-14.

The first day of the school year was organized, the pupils received their first instructions of the session from their teachers and were given a list of books they must buy and assigned lessons for Tuesday where it was possible to do so. It is then that the real work of study will begin to continue through the winter months and into the coming spring.

From hundreds of homes in Atlanta, little tots and big sun-browned boys and girls, sent out early for their various lessons, and with their books and pencils, look at the inside of a class room, others will take up where they left off at the beginning of vacation and still others enter upon their last year in the common schools of the city, to be graduated either at the close of the year or enter upon a collegiate course.

In every part of the city the streets were alive early with the throngs of the children on their way to school, a spectacle that has not been seen for three months, but one that will be continuous for nine months to come.

The principal's office in the city hall at 9 o'clock and fifteen minutes later over 800 teachers opened their doors, marking the beginning of their work. At some of the schools, however, any delay in organization, classes were not opened until 10 o'clock. The delay of the first day will under way and the children will be in the schools by 10 o'clock. No unnecessary time was consumed in the giving out of book lists and in less than two hours all schools were dismissed and pupils on their way to the bookstores to purchase their text books for Tuesday may be expected to be present.

The total attendance for last season, 1912-13, was 24,000. This year, 1913-14, 1,000 more children will enter school for 1913-14.

Before 9 o'clock every book store in Atlanta was crowded to capacity and scores of prospective purchasers were forced to wait outside until there was room to squeeze in. Despite the fact that the schools had not yet opened, the streets were not without the throngs of the children, parents and guardians.

What the sum total of this will reach cannot be estimated, but it is the opinion of many that upwards of $100,000 worth of books will be sold in Atlanta Monday.

Atlanta Monday was registered at the office of the Superintendent of Schools, William H. Harris, at 11 o'clock fully 150 children were lined up at the clerk's window, a day late in securing their admission. A large number of them represented pupils who had failed to meet the entrance requirements and had been sent back to get the proper credentials. Some had lost their cards, others had failed to get the proper credentials. Some had lost their cards, others had failed to get the proper credentials.

This is one of the most stringent requirements of the board of education, and no child will be admitted to school until one signed by a reputable physician of Atlanta is presented.

There were nearly a hundred thousand children in the city, and it is probable that 2,500 children will be obliged to go on the "part time" list because of lack of accommodations.

44 POINTS RISE WHEN COTTON MARKET OPENS

General Rush to Replace Cotton-Tax Bill Amendment Brought Rise

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The cotton market had a sensational early opening today, with first prices 44 points above Saturday's. There seemed to be a general rush to replace cotton, which had been sold out on the break of last week. The big buying was attributed to the Washington news, indicating that the cotton tax bill had been amended to take effect on September 1, 1914.

New Orleans Market Opens Steady at Big Advance

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 8.—The change in the cotton market today was a big one, making it effective September 8. The market was the bullish argument of force around the local future ring this morning that caused heavy buying and a wide advance in the face of improvement in weather conditions.

Young Man Who Rushed to

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
WAYCROSS, Ga., Sept. 8.—Robert Harrell, a thirteen-year-old adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Harrell, and Nick Luper, a thirteen-year-old boy, plunged to death in the Satilla river this morning when they were swimming. Neither could swim and had been told the water was not over five feet deep.

The bodies of the boys were recovered Sunday morning and were buried in Pleasant cemetery today. The tragedy today made three lives the Satilla has taken this year, which is the average the river has maintained for a long period of years.

MRS. GODBEE HOLDS SHE WAS JUSTIFIED IN SHOOTING JUDGE

Killing of Second Wife of Judge Godbee Will Be Called "Incident" in Defense of Woman Who Shot

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
MILLEN, Ga., Sept. 8.—The defense of Mrs. Edna M. Godbee, who is to be tried this week for killing her divorced husband, Judge W. M. Godbee, and his young son, will be that she was justified in shooting him. The defense will be that she was justified in shooting him. The defense will be that she was justified in shooting him.

One of the most remarkable defenses ever advanced in a court room in the South, or anywhere, and one that her attorneys are confident will bring about her acquittal through letters Judge Godbee had written his wife. The letters are in the hands of her attorneys, and a series of court records. They claim to be able to establish conclusively that makes her first case, but it is understood they will show an effort on the part of her late divorced husband to deprive her of property.

And the other death, just an "incident" as her lawyers will probably term it.

Atlanta Woman Charges Husband Told Her That He Poisoned First Wife

NEGRO BURGLAR WOUNDED
BY PATROLMAN MASHBURN

In a desperate struggle under a house in the rear of 128 East Baker street at 1:28 o'clock Monday afternoon, an unidentified negro burglar was wounded seriously and Policeman William Mashburn received several wounds by a long blade knife wielded by the burglar. None of the officer's wounds are serious.

The burglar was seen attacking the house of J. Goldstein at Harris and Fort streets at 1 o'clock. Neighbors notified Mashburn who was patrolling a beat in the vicinity. He rushed to the house. The negro saw him coming and fled. He was pursued by the policeman and others.

Desperate with fear, the negro finally was brought to bay in the rear of 128 East Baker street. All means of escape cut off he crawled under the house.

New York's Schools Open to Regiment Million Strong

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—It is estimated that the regiments of children, which started today for the opening of school in Greater New York make an army a million strong. A big element of the regiments were boys, boys and girls, with the health that comes from two months in the open, though, thousands wore the pallor of inactivity.

There were nearly a hundred thousand children in the city, and it is probable that 2,500 children will be obliged to go on the "part time" list because of lack of accommodations.

We always did like New Orleans.

We've won that rag; now let business proceed.

Congress may yet fail in time to see the world

The man who earns a good living has nothing to complain of—unless some other fellow gets it.

The Pennant.

Was there ever anything else just like it in all

Certainly not. A thousand times no.

Was there ever a fight better than that swung so tenaciously or waged with such a tide of protoplasmic vigor? Was there ever a victory so famously won?

Let historians prate as they will of San Juan

Hill and Manila Bay, of Agincourt and Crecy and Hastings. We "Crackers" know what we're talking about when we say that the decisive date in the annals of human affairs is September the seventh,

1913, Anno Domini.

Little remains to be said of what the Atlanta team has achieved in pat defiance of the jealous foes.

Every game played since the team came home was a pivotal game. Only the supreme skill and resourcefulness which the boys put forth could have won. They measured up the hour's crucial demands, unflinchingly and splendidly.

In the midst of the tumult and the shouting, however, let us not forget our friends, the Poles. It was their timely trouncing of Mobile that laid on the line finishing touch. Our heartfelt thanks to New Orleans. Verily, as J. Milton once remarked:

"They also serve who only stand and yell."

Just so "Thaw" doesn't take to the lecture platform, all will be well.

Someone probably considers that Canada hasn't much sporting blood.

Japan is being kept busy these days with the yellow peril at its doors.

A woman likes to see something nice about her husband in the papers so that she can ask him for a new dress and get it.

The man who thinks he is marrying an angel in disguise occasionally discovers later the alleged disguise was permanent.

Smoke's Deadly Peril.

The health department of Manchester, England, declares in an official report that the working life of the people of that city is reduced ten years by the clouds of smoke which envelop them.

The director of hygiene in the University of Halle ascribes the lowered vitality of city dwellers largely to the excessive smoke they breathe; and in this same cause, he thinks, are due impairment of eyesight and the prevalence of throat and lung affections.

An English scientist proves by statistics that smoke has been responsible for a large proportion of deaths in London. His investigation, as reported in the Army and Navy Journal, shows that "during the long period of smoke-induced fog in 1890 there were three thousand more deaths than usual in three weeks, and that in 1892, after a heavy fog, there were one thousand, four hundred and eighty-four additional deaths in a single week."

In the light of such testimony it is not vitally

The School of Today.

Twenty-five thousand Atlanta children are stopping schoolward today; and before the week is over millions more throughout America will join this inspiring march. The great work of public education, the work of making good citizenship and wholesome, useful lives has begun anew. No day of the year holds more significance to the nation, the community, and to the home.

It is a cheering fact that the children of this time enter a system of schooling very different from that of their grandfathers or even of their fathers and mothers. They are turning not merely to books and blackboards, but to a training camp organized to meet their human needs. Diverse aspects of child life which were wholly ignored in the educational schemes of a few generations past are now most strongly emphasized. It has been truly said that in years not far behind us the teacher's entire duty was considered done "when the child could spell and parse, successfully wrestle with vulgar fractions and give the boundaries and capitals of the states composing the union."

In these days denodis and tonis were unknown quantities; the applied science of ventilation had not crossed the threshold of the school room;

a few gulps of fresh air at recess

(unless the child was "kept in"), and a tour of the room to the marble accompaniment of a tuneful piano was as much of a sanitation as was thought necessary. Physiology was studied, after a fashion, but the only diseased condition investigated was that induced by the drink evil, and the tables of statistics and the diagrams of the internal economy of the body did not seem to have very much to do with the active little machines of flesh and blood belonging to the boys and girls who cordially despised their inhuman and deadly text-book.

What a far-reaching and wholesome change has come to learning! The school of today that looks only to book learning, that considers merely the mental side of its pupils, without regard to health and character, is a disgrace to any alert, progressive community. We have come to see that fresh air is just as important as arithmetic, and vastly more so;

that well directed physical training has an intellectual and a moral value beyond all reckoning; that the correction of defects which may impair or ruin the child's future usefulness and happiness deserves as much attention as the correction of his examination paper. In short, we have come to see that schools were made for children, not children for schools; and that while the teaching of conventional studies is not to be neglected, the rounded training which constitutes true education must be daily emphasized.

No glad sound in those school bells for the victims.

A lot of dead ones in every town are holding out on the undertaker.

In the Third Maine District.

Of unusual interest, if not significance, is the special congressional election which is in progress today in the Third district of Maine. It is the first that has been held since the present congress, with its towering Democratic majority, convened, and the first, too, since the tariff and currency bills were passed and started definitely forward. Its outcome is, therefore, awaited with peculiar eagerness by leaders in all parties.

The election is being held to fill the vacancy

IN PRAISE OF LAZINESS

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.
 (Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

I make no bones of it, but here I confess and set down that I am lazy. I am born lazy and it has grown on me. I would never move at all if it did not seem to me to be in my own interest.

Furthermore, I raise my voice in defense of the army of lazy ones. They are the salt of the earth.

A lazy person does better work than an industrious body. He puts a very energy into his task because he wants to finish it as soon as possible.

A lazy boy will sweep wood fast so that he can get through and rest. A lazy girl sweeps the room with whirlwind activity, while the girl who loves work will dabble about all morning.

It is laziness that is the spring of human progress. Because a lazy man wanted to get out of the job of courting the horse, he thought out a plan for putting the harness of the horse under the buggy seat, whereby we ride like the wind.

Because lazy folks hated to climb stairs elevators were invented. Because people were too lazy to get off the train and go to the lunch counter, they devised dining cars.

Being too lazy to dip his pen in the ink every few seconds, some genius invented the fountain pen. And being too lazy even to take that, he proceeded to build a typewriter.

It was a lazy genius that thought of making a patent cigar lighter out of a flint stone and hearing, because he was too tired to strike matches.

Like-wise, who would have conceived the idea of a fireless cooker, except some woman too lazy to stand over the cook stove?

The clock is due to the unwillingness of men to wind the thing up every evening; and now they have clocks that will run a year.

The coat-brush is the triumph of laziness too great to put the garment on over one's head. In the good old days, the short-sleeved shirt and the work of Mark Twain.

Why We So Seldom Take Our Women to the Ball Game

"I'm always glad when our team is in the field, because they do so much better than hitting."

"It is a barren matinee the same as a sacrifice."

"What is the difference between 'one little bintie' and a small, juicy steak?"

Faust As An Advertisement

PARIS—Some weeks ago a brilliant performance of "Faust" was given at the Grand theater at Montreuil. The interior of the theater presented a fairyland aspect of luxury and elegance, and nothing was wanting to make the interpretation worthy of Goethe's masterpiece.

Between the first and second acts the stage manager made a little speech to the audience. "Ladies and gentlemen, by a Japanese inventor our distinguished manager has decided to replace the spinning wheel of Marguerite, a noisy and obsolete instrument, by a sewing machine of Moutreux. X, the running of which is so smooth that you will not lose a single note of the delightful song of 'The King of Thule.'"

Marguerite gravely took her seat before the sewing machine, on which the name of the maker was shown in luminous characters, and then, when she had finished the lines, murmured unrepentant: "This sewing machine is incomparable. Moreover, it only costs $50."

The audience does not appear to have been in any way shocked.—Paris Intransigence.

RATIONAL LOVE

"The rational rather than the romantic view of marriage is the one most in favor with the young people of the twentieth century," said Dr. H. L. Lewis, Westworth, the well known eugenics expert, in an address in Cleveland.

"The rational view will make for happier marriages. In two questions—little dialogue—running through the play, the speaker said:

"Will you always love me?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

DAUGHTERS TRICKED INTO CANTEN INDOORSEMENT?

Such Is Intimidation Made by Superintendent of Anti-Saloon League of America

Indicating that the Daughters of the American Revolution were tricked into endorsing the army post canteen during the last hours of the recent convention in Washington, D. C., William H. Anderson, of Baltimore, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America, has asked the state regents of the Daughters of the American Revolution to urge a reconsideration of the resolution before the next congress of the organization.

A communication making this request has been received by Mrs. Shepard W. Jones, of 711 Peachtree street, Georgia state regent.

Mrs. Foster announced Monday morning that she will not lend her name to a reconsideration of the measure. It simply will place the matter before the state organization when it convenes in March next, she said.

Mrs. Foster said that she did not think the canteen had been "tricked" into endorsing the post canteen. It was rushed through on the last day of the convention, but everybody understood the import of the resolution, she said.

"I wouldn't say whether or not the resolution expressed the sentiment of the whole organization," she said.

The convention which endorsed the sale of intoxicants in army posts met in Washington, D. C., last April. The next national meeting will be held in the same city next April. In the meantime the question of reconsidering the resolution will be brought before every chapter of the organization.

Mr. Anderson, of the Anti-Saloon League, intends to make the action of the Daughters of the American Revolution a point in his campaign for the Anti-Saloon League at Columbus, Ohio, on November 10, it is said.

INSURANCE MEN MEET TO DISCUSS BUSINESS

Convention of Twenty Agents of Mutual Life at Hotel Ansley

To correct the mistakes of yesterday and to discuss the business of the future, twenty agents of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, under the control of R. P. Shedd, manager of the Atlanta branch of the company, met in a committee room of the Hotel Ansley Monday morning at 11 o'clock for possibly a two days' session.

The feature of this meeting, which is the first held in a number of years and which may become an annual event, was the address of Prof. J. A. Jackson, instructor of agencies from the home office in New York city, who came to Atlanta at the invitation of Mr. Shedd.

Mr. Jackson, who has been with the company for a number of years and who has traveled extensively over the American continent, gave a heart-to-heart talk to the visitors who are here from every section of Georgia, putting them "back" to the real workings of the insurance game, and telling of his own experience that would be of interest to them.

The visiting agents and members of the local office will meet again in the afternoon and at 8:30 will be guests at a banquet to be held in the hall room of the Ansley. Another meeting will probably be held Tuesday morning, followed by adjournment until next week.

R. R. JACKSON CANDIDATE FOR COUNCIL IN THIRD

Another new candidate for council in the third ward, Mr. R. R. Jackson, announced Monday morning that he would run for council in the third ward against the present incumbent, Grady H. Hall, who is a candidate for re-election.

Mr. Jackson is a former justice of the peace, and is now a practicing attorney at law in the Third national bank building, being a member of the firm of Goble & Jackson.

GEORGIA TEACHERS WILL GET CHECKS THIS WEEK

Governor Slaton announced Monday morning that the second installment of the salaries of the state's school teachers would be paid during the present week. This installment will amount to $2,500,000, or 20 per cent of the annual appropriation of $12,500,000. The first installment was paid about a month ago. The early payment of special installment makes the second installment possible at this time.

Crackers in Boxes At Atlanta Theatre On Tuesday Evening

Tuesday night is baseball night at the Atlanta theater. It is also pennant night. Crackers' night, any other night you choose to call it that will signify the presence of the Atlanta baseball club at the show.

Atlanta already has said that her baseball team can have anything it wants for the asking. In accordance with general sentiment, Manager Homer George, of the Atlanta theater, has invited the team to a box party.

"And they can have all the boxes they want," declared Mr. George.

The invitation was extended for either Tuesday or Friday night. Manager Smith, who for the first time Tuesday night. Most of the team will leave town before Thursday, but they will be on hand for the show.

This attraction Tuesday is "Little Miss Fick."

DR. C. A. RIDLEY SPENT VERY BUSY DAY SUNDAY

Married Two Couples and Raised $500 at Morning Service

Dr. C. A. Ridley, pastor of Central Baptist church, spent one of the busiest days of his career on Sunday. In the small hours of the morning he was awakened by Mr. George Chase and Miss Mary Payne, who wanted to get married, and, of course, he accommodated them.

At the Sunday morning service Dr. Ridley preached on the subject, "The Kingdom of God and Money," and so impressed the congregation that they put $500 in the contribution box as a free-will offering.

And a short while before the evening service Dr. Ridley was paid a visit by State Game Commissioner Jesse E. Mercer, leaves Tuesday for Boston to attend the annual convention of the National Association of State Game Wardens, which meets in that city Sept. 11-13. Mr. Mercer is a member of the association's executive board.

TWO DETECTIVE VOUCHERS PASTORS PREPARE FOR CITIZENSHIP CONGRESS

He Refuses to Pay for Dictograph and Refuses to Pay for 'Stool Pigeons'

The city comptroller's office Monday morning returned two vouchers to Newport A. Laidford, chief of the city detectives, which Mayor Woodward has refused to sign.

One is a voucher for $197.50 to cover the expense of using a dictograph on the case of the William house several months ago. It has been several months since the voucher was presented to the mayor. He states that he will never sign it.

The dictograph business was an outrageous piece of work and I won't allow the city's money to be spent to pay the expense," he has said.

The other voucher turned down by the mayor is for $247.50 to pay "stool pigeons" employed by the detective department.

The mayor is against "stool pigeons" both as a matter of law and as a matter of principle. He doesn't believe it is legal to spend money this way, in the first place, and in the second place, he is emphatically opposed to the use of "stool pigeons" by the detective department.

In returning the "stool pigeon" vouchers, the comptroller's office agents that Chief Laidford obtain a ruling from the city attorney as to the legality of the expenditure. In the event the city attorney rules it to be legal, it is possible that he mayor will sign this voucher, but the detective men on notice that he will sign no more.

"SNOWBALL" BAILEY YET MAY BE SENT TO PRISON

Former Suspect in Phagan Case Now Being Held on Hold-Up Charge

If allegations by the police are true, Gordon Bailey, alias "Snowball," negro elevator boy at the National Hotel, who came into the limelight when arrested two days after Mary Phagan's murder as a suspect, may languish in prison after all.

"Snowball" and two other negroes are charged with highway robbery. John Evans, another of the trio, was bound on the charge Monday morning.

Having eluded the police since the alleged robbery, Bailey will be bound over to the city criminal court on August 19. On the same day Bailey was held. The latter has been released under bond of $100.

Bailey was arrested before Jim Conley and several others were subjected to the same cross examining that brought forth Conley's confession, later.

One of the plotters of the Atlanta, died at his home, 767 Marietta street, Sunday morning. He had been seriously ill for several months and his death was not unexpected.

Judge Horton was seventy-eight years of age and came to Atlanta when he was a prominent figure in local politics and was justice of the peace in Cook's ward for twelve years.

Judge Horton is survived by his wife and four children and a large number of grandchildren.

The funeral will take place from the residence Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock and interment will be at Riverdale cemetery.

COMMISSIONER PRICE TO ADDRESS DAIRYMEN

An address devoted to the main to the farm, dairy and pure food work which is being performed by the state department of agriculture will be delivered by Commissioner J. D. Price Tuesday at Hartwell.

Price was invited to deliver this address by the Georgia Dairy and Livestock association, which is now in session at Hartwell. He was president of the organization for about four years.

ATLANTA DAY AT FAIR FAVORED BY WOODWARD

Mayor Would Like Special Train Run to Knoxville's Exposition

Mayor Woodward is in receipt of a letter from W. J. Frazer, formerly an Atlanta citizen, now a citizen of Knoxville, asking him to lend his influence to the end that Atlanta may be represented by a large number of citizens on Atlanta day at the forthcoming exposition in Knoxville.

Mayor Woodward is favorable to the plan, and has written Mr. Frazer that he will take it up with the chamber of commerce and the newspapers, to see which can be done.

"If the people favor it," said the mayor to the reporters Monday morning, "I think it would be a fine thing to run a special train to Knoxville on Atlanta day."

Mr. Frazer says they would like to have the drum corps, a squad from the fire department, a squad from the police department, city officials, and citizens generally.

He believes there was a special train or something of the kind to Knoxville a few years ago, which was quite a success.

"You may say for me that if the people favor it, I would like to see something of the kind done again."

NEW ORLEANS COTTON
NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 8.—Cotton futures in New Orleans closed 3 to 49 points higher than the previous close, with the market showing renewed bull support. The market was very much unsettled late in the morning. The detailed weather reports showing that showers had been going down for several days, and that the weather was becoming more settled, with the possibility of a rise in the cotton market.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET
IRREGULAR ALL SESSION

Petroleum Stocks, Beet Sugar and Car Foundry Up-Union Pacific and Steel Off

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—With the exception of an advance in California petroleum products, all movements of stocks at the opening today were adverse. Petroleum stocks made a further advance, in the expectation of a favorable showing in the monthly statement of Union Pacific, Reading and several other roads. Steel stocks were marked up, and showed a violent rise in several other industrial groups in which speculative interest is active. Petroleum stocks advanced 1 to 2 points. Union Pacific, Reading and several other roads were marked up, and showed a violent rise in several other industrial groups in which speculative interest is active.

talk of the leased business and to the
for the first time.

Analysts estimated the speculative possibilities traded, attracted their attention grain and cotton, where speculation was active. Prices of the well known stocks ruled downward.

Part of the morning's advances in various specialties were obliterated when the general market turned down.

Prices rebounded fractionally until the copper figures came out, after which the list dropped.

The copper report showed a demand for 5,000,000 pounds, which fulfilled speculators' hopes.

Realizing in the copper share, some of which acted as a relief to the grain, and a weakening effect elsewhere, as did the continued rise cotton and grain prices.
